

Kenya and China in partnership to combat infectious Diseases

Scientists from Kenya and China have resolved to work together to help their respective countries effectively respond to the challenge of infectious diseases. The sentiments were expressed during a symposium on infectious diseases at the Sino-Africa Joint Research Centre (SAJOREC) held on May 6-8. Speaking during a three-day symposium on infectious diseases at the Sino-Africa Joint Research Centre (SAJOREC), Prof. Di Liu from Wuhan Institute of Virology, Chinese Academy of Sciences said China had made significant strides in containment of infectious diseases which Africa could learn from. <http://www.jkuat.ac.ke/kenya-and-china-in-new-partnership-to-combat-infectious-diseases/>