

NMG in entrepreneurship training for varsity students

Nation Media Group will hold a one-day entrepreneurship forum where university students will meet and get mentorship from Kenya's top chief executive officers. The event will draw students from public and private universities with the business executives picking leaners who they will mentor and progressively train them in readiness for the job market. "It will be mind-opening and something different, the chief executives should give us something applicable to our generation and how they made it," said Carthy Macharia, a third-year Economics student at the Thika road-based Jomo Kenyatta University of Agriculture and Technology when she registered for the forum last week.
